DETAILED ACTION

1. This is responsive to the amendment after non-final filed on 27 January 2009.
2. Claims 1 – 12 and 21 – 32 are pending and considered below.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 27 January 2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Regarding the rejection of claims 1 – 12 under 35 USC § 112, Applicant argues that a spoken dialog service outside of a telecommunications network is disclosed in paragraph [0049]. First, as a formal matter, there is no mention whatsoever of the phrase "telecommunication" in [0049] or anywhere else in the specification. Second, even equating the disclosed "communication network" with the claimed "telecommunication network", there is no disclosure of a spoken dialog service outside of a communications network. The disclosed communications network relates to distributed computing entities, for performing some embodiment of the invention, which are linked through the communications network. The fact that the invention itself could be outside of a communications network is neither disclosed nor suggested by the specification. Further, it is unclear how a spoken dialog service, which is a conversation between a human and a computer, can be realized without a communications network allowing a communication between the human user and the computer.

Regarding the art rejections, Applicant argues that the prior art is non-analogous and that this argument, which was presented previously, was not addressed by the Examiner in the last correspondence. The Examiner agrees that this argument was presented previously but notes that it was addressed in the final rejection mailed 05 February 2008. It is provided again below.

In response to Applicant's argument that Devine et al (US PGPub 2003/0217190), Mital et al (USPN 7,184,967) and Wallace (USPN 4,686,623) are nonanalogous art, it has been held that a prior art reference must either be in the field of Applicant's endeavor or, if not, then be reasonably pertinent to the particular problem with which the Applicant was concerned, in order to be relied upon as a basis for rejection of the claimed invention. See In re Oetiker, 977 F.2d 1443, 24 USPQ2d 1443 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, both Applicant's invention and Devine and Mital are basically directed to schematically representing flow charts of a process and generating a computer executable code from these flow charts. The fact that the specific processes of Applicant's invention (spoken dialog service) and the prior arts of Devine (telephony) and Mital (business) are different does not render them nonanalogous. As a matter of fact Devine states "the systems and methods described herein may be employed in many applications besides telephony services, including gaming, video-conferencing, billing, and other applications" ([0067]). To further stress the point, both Applicant's invention and Devine even disclose using the same exact software program, Microsoft's Visio, in order to draw flow charts. Wallace is used as prior art to show a well known method of generating a computer executable code (finite state machine) similar to Applicant's state-based representation.

In other words, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

5. Claims 1 – 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement as put forth in the office action mailed on 27 October 2008.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 1 – 12 and 21 – 32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable as put forth in the office action mailed on 27 October 2008.

Conclusion

8. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
